Chapter 3 THE BEGINNINGS OF GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

The roots of American government reach deep into the past. One tradition of government did not suddenly spring into being as if the wave of some political magician's wand. Nor was it pulled out of thin air by the

The Colonial Period

Our English Heritage. The French, Spanish, Dutch, Norwegian, and other Europeans settled in parts of what was to become the United States. But it was the English who came in the largest numbers. And it was the English who came to control the thirteen colonies that stretched for 1,200 miles along the Atlantic seaboard.

These early pioneers who advanced the wilderness and fought off the Indians are said to have found the future in the New World. But their eyes were turned to the old world as they came here in search of greater Founding Fathers of Philadelphia in the summer of 1787. It was to be developed through long centuries of experience, tradition, thought, and deed. We shall now review the basic points of their beginnings.

They brought with them the political ideas of their native land. These included the idea of a government of the people, the idea of a government of laws, and the idea of a government of the people.

1.1 The English Concept of Limited Government and Civil Liberties. They brought with them, too, the twin ideas of limited government and civil liberties. That is, that government is not all-powerful, that government is limited in what it may do, and, especially, that it is limited in the sense of which are to be found today — country through levy, sheriff, coroner, and justice of the peace, for example. And all of these were well known in England long before the first Englishmen ever heard of America.

SETTLERS AT WORK

Each American had to live together in harmony or they would not survive. This was called "government in order to live," the beginning of our government today.

That each man has certain rights that government cannot injure or take away. These great principles of freedom were proclaimed in such historic English documents as the Magna Carta in 1215, the Petition of Right in 1628, and the Bill of Rights and the Act of Toleration of 1689.

1.2 The Concept of Representative Government. A third vitally important concept brought to America in English ships was that of representative government. For centuries there had been developing in England the

SO LONG!

Twenty-one years ago, about the 1st of July, 1956, Mrs. Richardson and I moved to Lenapah School Dist. C-1 community to become a part of the life of it as School Supt. and teachers. A generation and a half of its citizens have received their common school education during our tenure with you.

Those years have been marked with your friendly and consistent cooperation and loyalty. You have never failed to support and approve a levy recommended by your Board of Education and Superintendent for the improvement of the school plant or the first Building Fund five mill levy to modernize the school with indoor plumbing; to procure buildings for a Cafeteria and Custodian's house; to erect a Voc. Ag. Building; to build a permanent Garage for the School Buses; to renovate the main building by the installation of glass blocks, and steel window casements; the passage of a Bond, $125,000, for the construction of the Elementary Building; and other levies since, are concrete evidence of a citizenry committed to improving the facilities for better schools.

We urge you to continue to support the new administration with all your resources to provide a better program for the boys and girls of the community. They are your most precious possession, and deserve the best which you can give them in loyal cooperation with your School Administration and Board of Education.

In plain and simple language we thank you; hundreds of graduates and former students; present faculty members and those of the past; members of the present and past Boards of Education; other employees of the school, bus drivers, cafeteria workers and custodians; and all the students presently enrolled; and friends of the school for the opportunity of working with you these twenty-one years, years of happy association with you! May God Bless you and Keep you!
