To incite violent laughter and hearty applause, a play has to be well above the ordinary. "My Three Angels" combined a magnificent cast, a highly capable production staff, and an excellent director to produce a play more than worthy of the high praise which it received.

A special tip of the hat should go to the production staff for helping to make "My Three Angels" a grand success. They are Seated JoAnn Harlin, student director; Jim Robertson, business manager; Margaret Johnson. Standing Chris Upton, Regina Weber, Billy Adams, Linda Layton, Robert Dye, Rose Burck, Don Adams, Judy White, Kris Whistler, Olivia Johnson, Janet Gibson, Kathy Sparrowhawk, Arnetta Bynum, and Collette Martin.

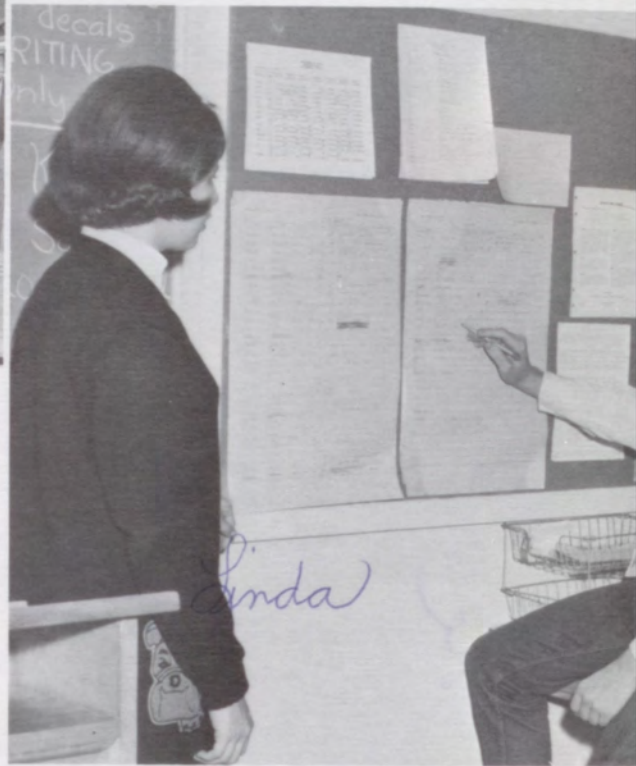

Marie Louise and Alfred hold a scowling contest.

Make-up is sometimes a problem, but not when the staff includes such beautiful and intelligent girls as were on the "My Three Angels" staff. Pictured left to right are Janet Gibson (in the doorway), Wayne Goodwin, Kathy Sparrowhawk, Edgar Beahm, Stephen Borklund, Linda Layton, and Dave Gaughan.

Shown here carefully scrutinizing the college newspaper for errors are Alexis Jarrett, Amy Ohlandt, Margaret Johnson, and Jim Robertson.

Journalists Linda Hybarger, Gary Null, Stephen Goll, and David Scott check stories they have to cover. (That's why no one is smiling.)

THE

Having agile fingers which race across the keyboard like quicksilver is a great asset to an aspiring journalist. Here, Collette Martin and Constance Orr pound out a couple of news stories.

The Independence Student has a large circulation, and it's a big job getting the paper out to all of its subscribers. Here, getting papers ready for mailing, are Joanna Mydland, Mary Bagwell, Sandra Greenwood, and Terry Clark.

The Independence Student is the official publication of Independence High School. Although it is put out by the journalism class, it takes long hours of work after school to present a really great paper. The staff members pictured on these pages have all served on various positions with the paper. This enabled them to take part in a wide variety of jobs and to gain a good insight into the workings of a newspaper.

This year's outstanding staff presented students with enlightening news, thought-provoking editorials, informative features, and interesting columns.

From leg man to rewrite desk, this year's Independence Student was one of the best in recent years.

STUDENT

Discussing the layout of the next paper are Kathy Satchel (standing), Anne Bryant, Suzanne Cherot, and Linda Watts.

Officers of the high school robed choir are Jeanie Petsick, secretary-treasurer; Tom McKernan, president; Paula Mercer, vice-president; and JoAnn Harlin, student council representative.

Singing at various civic gatherings is the high school robed choir. The choir meets three days a week at 7:15 in the morning. Members of the group are Row 1: Mary Cleek, Nancy Heathman, Charlotte Garrett, Sharon Howe, Donna Morris, Margaret Lesco, Barbara Mosely, Sara Roberts, Joyce Acheson, Collette Martin. Row 2: Debbie Wesley, Linda Watts, Terri Plummer, Connie Orr, Jeanie Petsick, Paula Mercer, Miriam Dye, Arnetta Bynam, Sue Walker, Carmelita Harris,

Members of the boy's quartet are Larrie Veith, Dan Dotterer, Don Mitchell, and Tom Stockebrand.

On December 16th both high school and college robed choirs presented a sacred oratorio, The Holy City. They were accompanied by an orchestra, organ, and piano. The guest soloists, pictured in the foreground, were Mr. Dumont Reed, Mrs. Don Atkin, Mr. Harold Thompson, director, Mrs. Robert Sayers, and Mr. Dave Fink.

CREATE SPIRIT

These seven vivacious girls helped create Bulldog spirit this year. Their long hours of practicing proved worthwhile when they journeyed to the University of Oklahoma last summer. While attending the annual National Cheerleading Association's clinic, the Independence Bulldog Cheerleaders placed third in competition with squads from seven different states. Approximately 600 girls attended the second session. The clinic at OU is considered to have the toughest competition in the nation.

FUTURE TEACHERS

Future Teachers of America is a club that helps show future teachers what their profession will be like. In the spring, seniors of the club attend classes of another Independence school. In this way, they are able to see what the teaching profession is really like. The group also awards a scholarship to a future teacher during the year. Last year the club attended a state convention of Future Teachers clubs in Manhattan.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS

Future Homemakers play an important part in the organizations of IHS. For the past two years the club has made gifts for the Childrens' Mental Hospital in Parsons. In addition to helping with home improvement projects around the school, the group has several bake sales and parties, and sponsored a fashion show in the spring.

The Accent on Art, or the AOA, is an organization compiled of students in the high school interested in the visual arts. The AOA offers to these students an opportunity to build their interest, their understanding, and their knowledge of the visual arts. This is accomplished through such activities as field trips, discussions, and creative expression. Many projects, such as the Nativity scene and the high school float, are undertaken by the art club—and eventually finished.

This non-denominational organization offers students the opportunity to get outside of themselves. Student Christian Fellowship has no money-making projects, but members make free-will donations. Emphasis is placed on student participation, which results in many excellent talks given by students and by outside speakers recruited by the students. Student Christian Fellowship sponsors the assemblies at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter; but frequently calls on other organizations for these presentations. A special memorial service for Mr. Eldon Smith was presented by the Student Christian Fellowship.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

FUTURE NURSES

The newly organized Future Nurses and Health Career Club has provided many girls with an opportunity to explore this fascinating field. Several interesting speakers have provided inspiration with the points brought up in their speeches. The group also visited The Door of Hope and had a party for the children.

Officers seated are Nancy Guier, secretary-treasurer; Kathy Sparrowhawk, president; and Pam McGuiness, vice-president.

Standing are Alexis Jarrett, Pam Nickel, Mrs. Summers, sponsor; Myrna Hoffman, Carin Brechbill, and Chris Upton.

STUDENT

The Student Council is the governing body of IHS. It strives to make IHS a better school at all times. Its various projects include sponsoring an orphan, purchasing plants for the flower box, and planning and sponsoring the proms.

To raise money, the Student Council operates pop and candy machines. Here is Linda Hybarger, treasurer, collecting money to use for Student Council activities.

Composed of the eight schools in the SEK League is the newly-organized SEK Council. The president of each school's student council represents their school on the Council. Instigated through the Council was a Sportsmanship Trophy to go to the school in the Council that had the highest over-all rating in conduct at the basketball games. Any school that wins the Trophy three years straight will keep possession and a new one will be started. Eric Burkhead, our local president, was elected president of the SEK Council.

SCIENCE CLUB

The science club is a group of interested students who meet weekly to discuss current scientific discoveries and to do research on projects of interest. Mr. Dempsey Walker, professor of physics, acts as sponsor of the group.

Often as an addition to the meetings, the science club takes field trips to various local points of interest. Among these have been the cement plant, Starcraft boat plant, and a visit to the University of Kansas for a science exposition.

Towards the end of this year, the Bausch and Lomb science medallion was awarded to the member having the best scientific project and report for the year.

The name, "Independence Bulldogs," has become a terror-envoking term throughout the SEK Conference. Combining powerful lineman, speedy backs, a seldom infiltrated defense, and two expert coaches, the Bulldogs were able to drive their way to a second place standing. However, the standing was no indication of the Bulldog's true strength, as two heart-breaking ties, which could easily have been won, were the only stumbling blocks in the way of a possible 7-1-0 record.

'DOGS ENJOY

The Independence Bulldogs enjoyed a winning season this year by compiling a 9-5 league record and a 14-7 record for all games. Combining height with exceptional speed and good depth, the 'Dogs were able to place third in the SEK League, third in the Pittsburg Invitational Tournament, and second in the Wellington Regional Tournament. Had it not been for two heartbreaking overtime losses and two other close disappointments, the 'Dogs could have achieved a first place league tie. The high point in the season, however, was attained when the "mighty, fighting, biting" Bulldogs smashed arch-rival Coffeyville by twelve points on our home court.

Head Coach Bill White (left) and Assistant Coach Bob Ratzlaff (right) combined efforts to produce two of the most successful Bulldog teams Independence has seen in several seasons.

Dear IHS
 I'll not for-get dear IHS
 Her colors waving faith-ful-ly
 Old IHS where you and I—
 Pledged our hearts to do or die—
 To have, to hold, the orange and black
 Our mem-or-ies will soon come back
 I'll not forget dear IHS
 Alma Mater, the school for me

ORANGE AND BLACK STAFF

Yearbook sponsor Constance Baird (left) looks on admiringly at some of the various artwork completed by art directors Louanne Neilson and Sue Walker. Suzanne Cherot also displays her approval.

For the first time in twelve years IHS has its own annual. The staff is continuing the name, Orange and Black, which was originated by the former Montgomery County High School in 1914, and which was derived from the school colors.

As the closing of this book concludes another year of experiences, the staff has tried to record a few moments of memory. Through these pages, doors of opportunity and experience have been opened to many, rewarding moments have been revealed as a result of the educational training perceived at IHS, and lasting friendships have been made.

This year we have all grown a little older, a little wiser, and will continue this pattern the rest of our lives. The knowledge and memories of this year have been summarized in the 1966

Orange and Black. In years to come this will be a memory book to be treasured, laughed about, enjoyed. By this time we will all have journeyed down separate paths, leaving our mark in the history of this world.

Before closing this book the staff and I would like to say we feel privileged to have had the opportunity to work with Constance Baird, our adviser, and Jon Finch, our former adviser.

I should now like to dedicate this book to the Seniors of '66 who will be journeying down separate paths, hoping that whether your path is easy or rugged you will always be able to hold your head high.

The staff and I present to you the 1966 Orange and Black.
