Us of...92

Seniors Corey Davis, Tiffany Boyle, Amber Price, Brandie Morrison, Stacy Dick, Chad Brown, Charlie Hadley and Doug Hadley.

It was a year to remember for everyone but especially the seniors. Remember how it felt to practice walking across the stage during school time. Remember how you felt when you got to hold your diploma for the first time. You put in all that effort for that small piece of paper. It felt good to know that all those years of schooling were finished. For some, that day meant going out and joining our parents in the full-time work force of America but for others it was just another stepping stone in their education. One thing that comes to almost every senior's mind when they think back on this year is Mrs. Spencer's English Class. Remember all the grammar work and tests. For those in College Prep English and the AP English class, remember all those one hundred word vocabulary tests. For some, that was not so bad; but for those that procrastinated, it was a killer. Also remember all those sleepless nights that went by while typing the research papers. Remember the first research paper that Mrs. Spencer made General English do, too. She made sure that everyone received a dose of typing. She put her signature on the back of every paper that was finished in her presence. Grading those research papers was not a fun chore for either her or the students. Remember how she went back through the sources with us making sure we used more of our own words instead of the author's themes. Some of the seniors that liked to procrastinate found themselves typing until twelve or one o'clock the night before it was due. Remember Ray Emmott's American Government class that was required for all seniors to take. One cannot forget all the notes that had to be taken in that class. Every day was another page of notes. The first semester consisted of plenty of notes and maps. Every other week there was a map test. Remember watching Roe vs. Wade in there. Also, this was the big year that his first semester class spent days watching the Clarence Thomas Confirmation Hearings. These are the memories that form our senior year. Everyone has there own special little memories, within their own groups, of this year and of the years that came before this one. These are the ones that as a class we can all share.

This year's cross-country coach was Orlin "Jit" Milner. Milner was pleased this year with the team as a whole. "This was the best season ever in I.H.S. history. The county men won SEK which they have never done before, and this, along with other great events, was the highest point of the season" Milner stated. Heather Scott was this year's manager for the country men and she's done a great job. In addition to the great season several runners qualified for state and Allan Corkill had the highest finish in the state.

OKLAHOMA

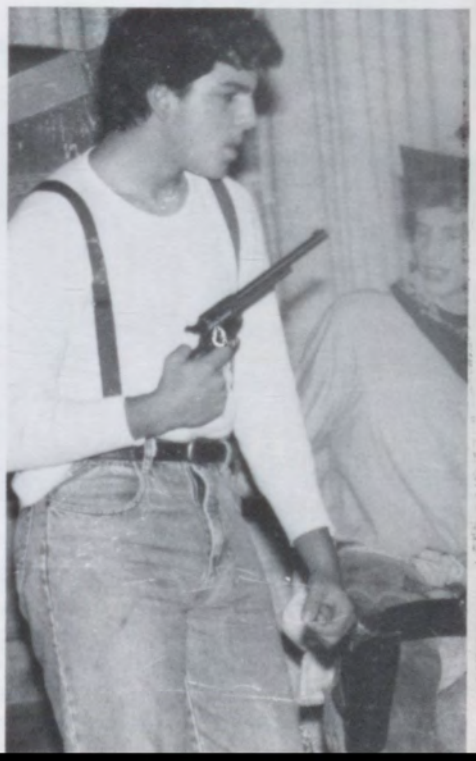

Oklahoma was a great musical, the cast was made up of several characters, but there were three main characters. Curly, Jud, and Laurey. Laurey was a farm girl who was in love with Curly. Jud was an evil villain who was in love with Laurey and would do anything to keep Laurey and Curly from being together. Curly on the other hand was the good guy who wanted to win Laurey's love and eventually does. Laurey was played by Michele Descioli, Curly by Mike Jones, and Jud by Derek Salem. Since August Kays have showed their support for the community. At each football game the Kays raise the American flag while the band plays the National Anthem. In October they participated in a highway clean up. They threw parties for Reach Preschool and Decorated the nursing homes for the many holidays during the year. They also collected pennies for needy families and in December they made sacks for Christmas babies. For the school the Kays also do many things. In August they put each teacher's schedule on his door, helped Mrs. Hellen with lunches for students and served as guides on the first day of school. They do the flag salute every Monday and dust the trophy cases and clean windows and doors.

Teachers Retire

James Markle is retiring this year. What will he do in his spare time? Markle plans to travel for two years, visit his five children and then do "guy stuff." His hobbies are fishing, hunting, seeing Western shows and going to rodeos. In his 30 year career, Markle has taught several subjects such as English Grammar, Typing, Literature, Agriculture, Algebra, Chemistry, Biology, Physics, General Math, Physical Science and Earth Science. This is strange for someone who had a major in Animal Science. Markle taught in Colorado for six years; in Altoona Midway for ten years; and IHS for 14 years. Markle graduated from La Junta, Colorado in 1949. He advanced to Colorado State University in Fort Collins, Colorado in 1953. His childhood dream was to own cattle and lots of horses. Markle's final words were to his fellow colleagues. "I've enjoyed working with the faculty and for the administration you've been a good group.

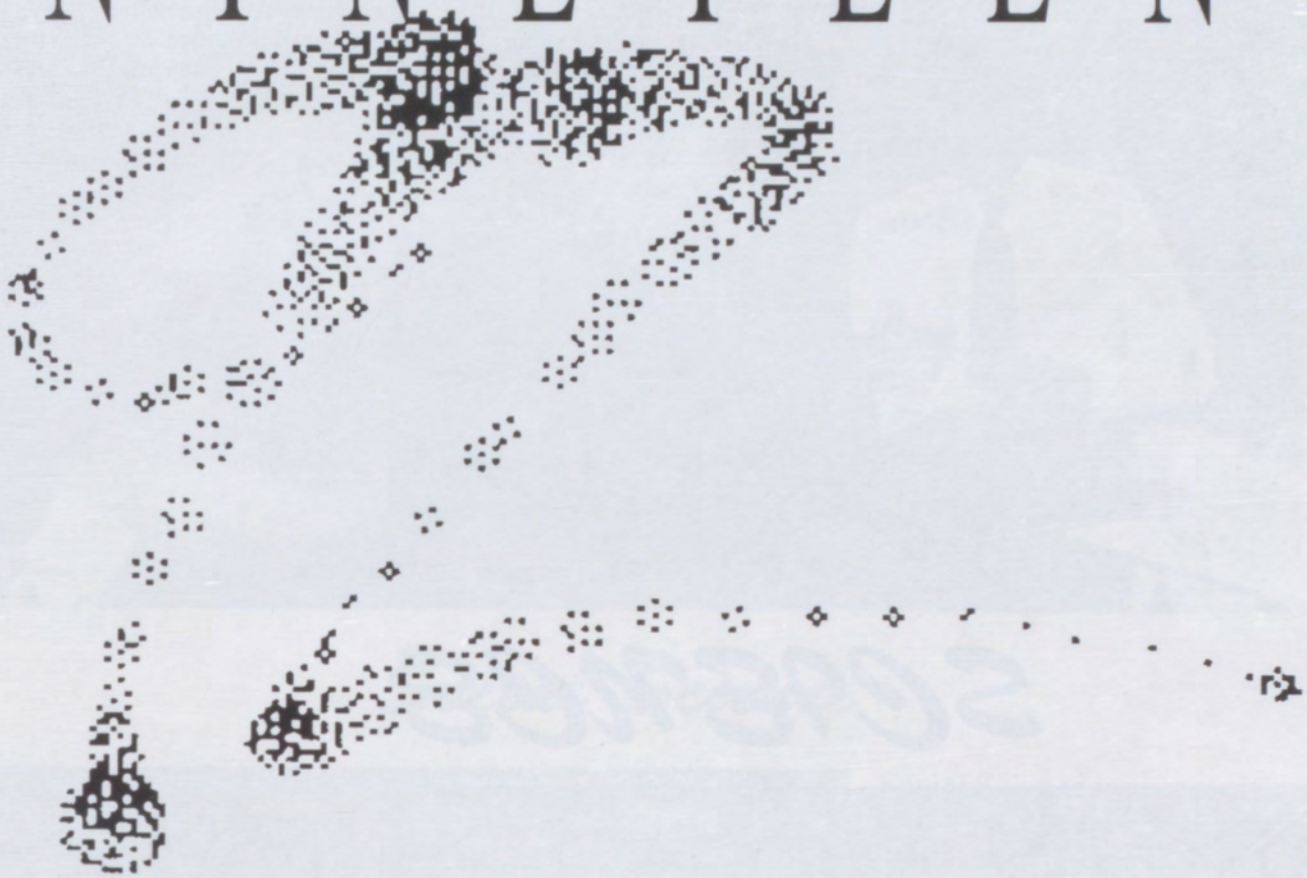

Carole King is leaving with 30 years invested. After retirement, she plans to do the stuff she has no time for now. Her hobbies are crafting, tole painting, reading, traveling and doing puzzles. When asked about one of the funniest moments, she thought for a moment. She was in her typing class and as they were getting ready for timing, on the word "go" no one typed a word. Later that day, she pondered that thought and chuckled to herself. In King's 30 years of teaching, she has taught several subjects such as: Accounting, Shorthand, Typing, Yearbook, Journalism, Office Procedures, Business Law and Economics. King has taught at IHS for 23 1/2 years. 6 1/2 years were divided between Gardner, Kansas and Braggs, Oklahoma and Goodmen, Missouri. She leaves a final word to everyone. "Thanks to the students, faculty and administration for making this final year a good one."

After 19 years, one of the librarians at IHS chooses to retire. When her husband retired from Arco in April, Mary Lou Palmer decided to spend the rest of her time wit him. This will also give her more time to spend with her grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer own a cabin at Grand Lake, so she plans spending most of her time there. Her husband loves to play golf, so you may see her on the golf course. They also plan to travel a lot. Mrs. Palmer took the job when her oldest son was a junior. It gave her time to spend the summers and holidays with her family. Mrs. Palmer has enjoyed working around the students the most, but she never really got to know them until they became seniors. "The staff has been great to work with, I've made a lot of good friends and I'll miss working at IHS."

Academics

MATH

Robert Bauer and Shelby Brown, listen to Ms. Willis' pre-calc lecture during third hour.

SCIENCE

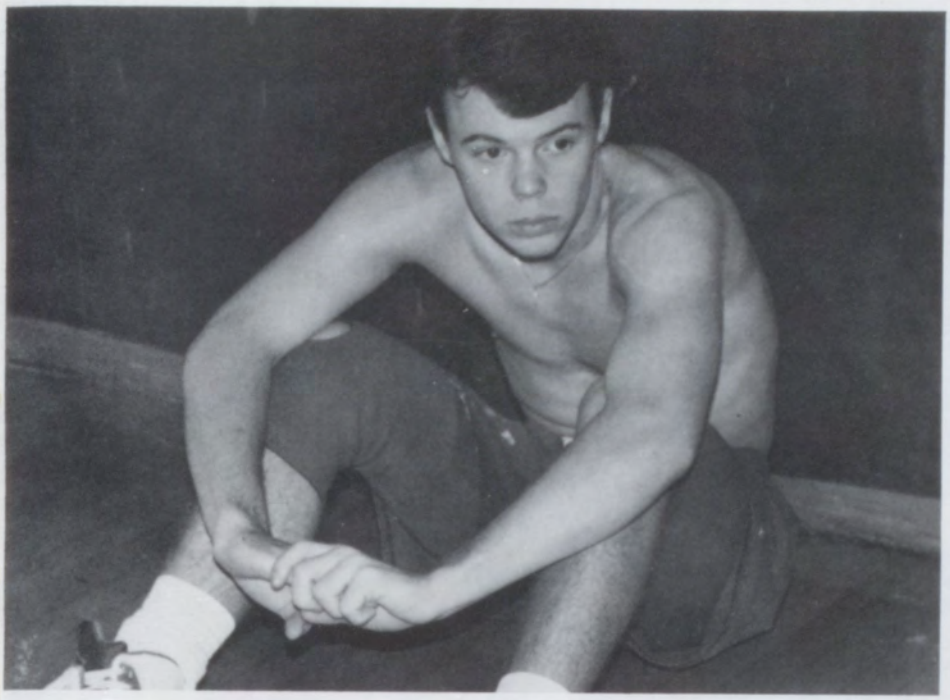

Heather Balance, and Mr. Markle investigate different chemical solutions for an experiment.

There are several math courses offered here at IHS. Fundamental math, geometry, algebra, Algebra II, pre-calculus, and intermediate algebra. Two math credits are required to graduate at IHS. and here are the teachers involved in teaching the students, Jean Lundt, Mike Griffin, Beverly Wills, Richard Hoose, Don Collins, and LLyod Harding.

GYM

Shawn Bloomfield takes a relaxing position after having a rough work-out in gym. Gym is taught by Kristi Speicher and Don Simmons, there are several types of classes such as: physical conditioning boys and girls, co-ed, and lifetime sports.

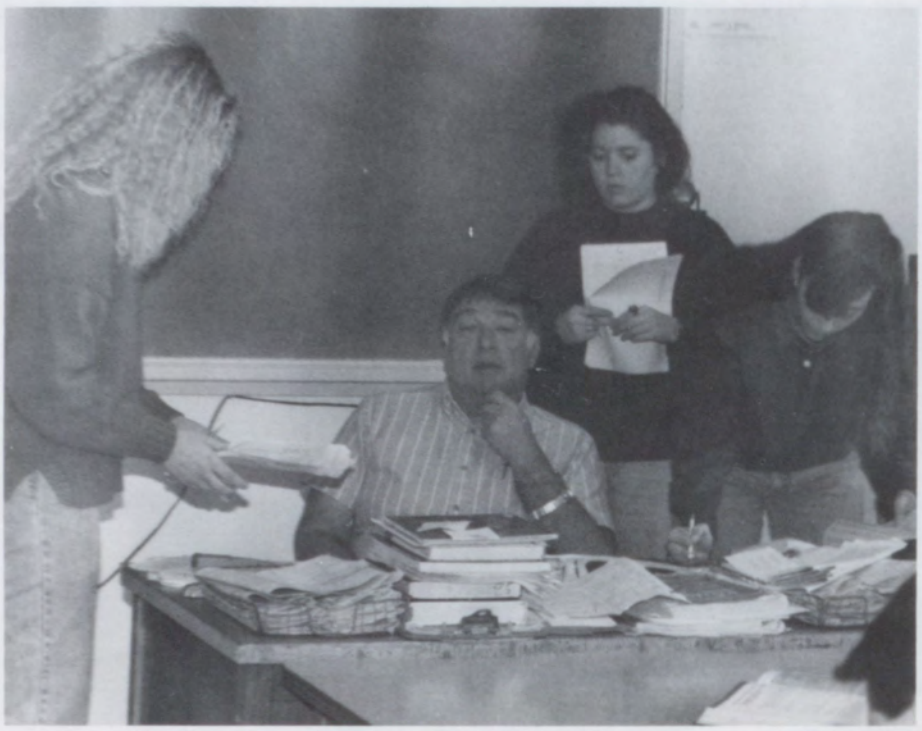

Social Science

Social Science involves citizenship, consumer survey, American history, American government, world history, criminal law, Kansas history and psychology must be passed to graduate. Photos by David O'Malley and Layout by Chad Brown.

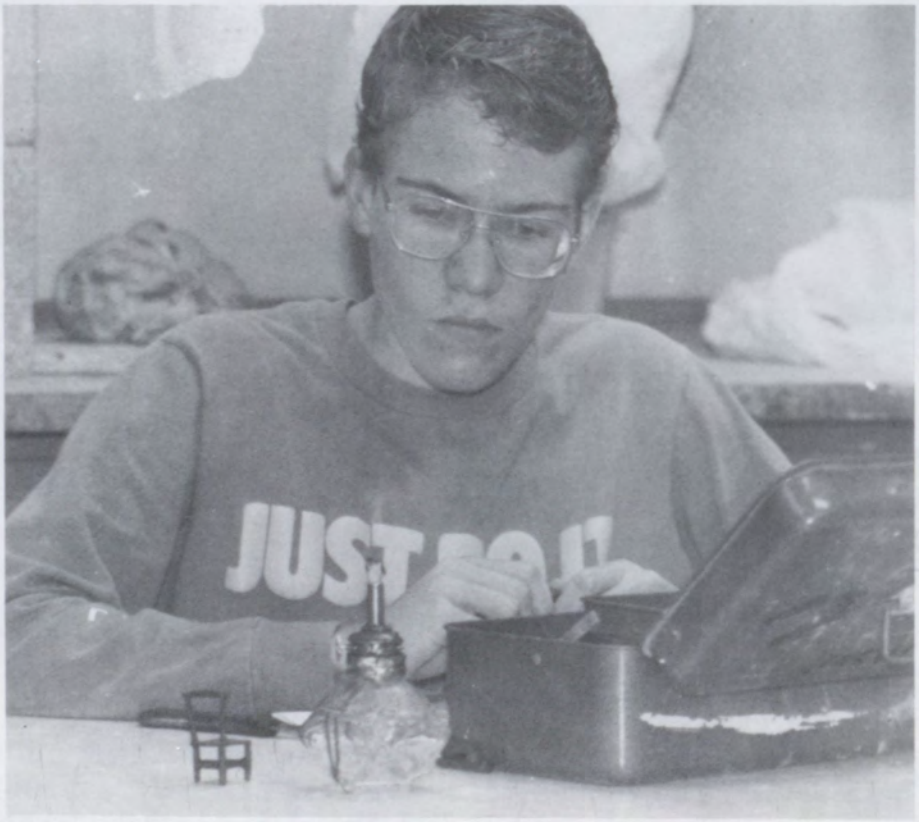

Rene Nowak and Misty Overfield look at an intense reading of social science.

BUSINESS

Business class at IHS consist of typing I-IV, record keeping, accounting I and II, office procedures, using computers, computer programing, introduction to business computer, business law, speed writing, and shorthand. Teachers for these areas are Julianna Wetter, Carole King, and Larry Maskus.

Allison Sewell Tiffany Boyle, and Holly Simmons ask Mr. Maskus for additional business like material.

ART

Art classes consist of Ceramics I and II, Jewelry I and II, Drawing I and II, Design and Painting I, II, and the two teachers are William Trouski, and Rachel (Wormington) Worthington.

Students need three and a half English credits to graduate. There are three types of classes to choose from, General, basic, and Advanced. Teachers involved in teaching these subjects are Connie Harding, Freddie Jayne, Ellen Ross, Lea Shepard, Linda Spencer, Rachel Torrbet, David Torrbet, and Martha Bross.

VOTECH

Every afternoon students at IHS go to Coffeyville for Votech. There are four areas to work in; auto machanics, auto body, computer programming, and machine shop. Mostly the students work on cars and car engines. Votech students are back row- Eric Vannoster, Bill Hugo, Mark Kinsey, Randy Finney. Front row- Ronnie Nickle, Todd Flippen, Ronnie Cline, Mark Wood, and Jason Fienen.

OFFICE ASSISTANTS

Office assisting is an elective. Students are selected by the office. They go around snatching attendance off the doors of every classroom. The assistants then mark off who is absent that day. What would the office do without the assistants?

SPECIAL ED

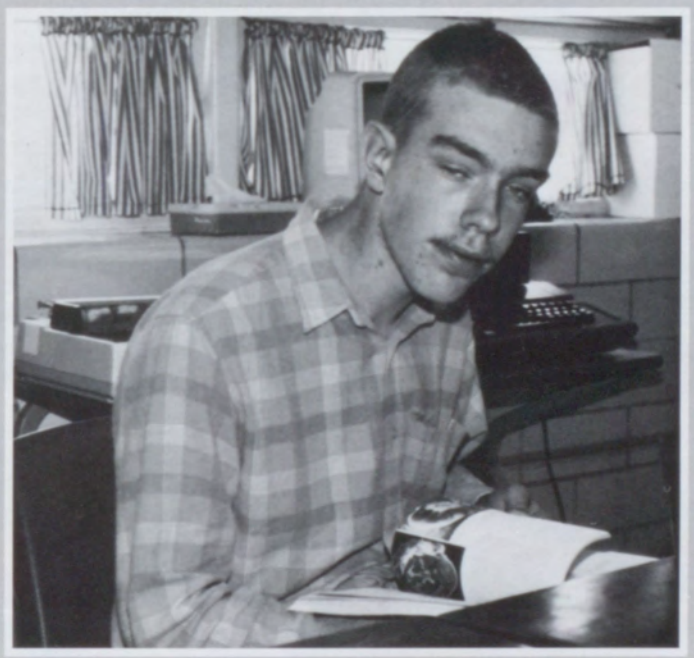

Waneta Cox is the certified teacher for special education. Gloria Price, Rosy Stevens, and Betty Hutchison are the special education paraprofessionals. They educate the students in life skills, reading, and mathematic skills. William Reasoner teaches the Extended Learning Program for gifted students.

Mrs. Stevens helps Kelly Medsker put together fabrics.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The educators in the industrial arts field are Jim Hogan and Tim Knoles. Hogan teaches the wood aspect while Knoles teaches the metal aspect of the subject. Metal is not all that Knoles works with. He works with computers also. Computer classes like Computer Integrated Manufacturing and power and energy give students what they need to know in the "real world". Knoles thinks students should learn by doing.

Heron Werner, Darrin Farris, Jerry Hayes, Jacob Sasse and Mike Whitten clown around while they clean after a hard day of shop.

Don Britain carries a shop project he is working on.
