COMMUNICO

Toward the Future

Looking toward the future, the editors of your Communico see many advances which are being considered for the junior colleges of Kansas. The expected increase in enrollment is already reflected in the enrollment of Independence Community College, and the State legislature is considering the junior college and its future as the Communico goes to press.

For these reasons the Communico staff chose "the forward look" as the theme for this 1965 yearbook. Renita Blankenship, art editor, created a design which would represent this theme. The two points of the design represent the wider separation of the high school and college divisions. This separation is progressing as is noted in the separated Student Councils and other organizations which had until this year been combined. Standing as a physical symbol of ICC's progress, the new Student Union provides a much needed place for socializing with friends over a cup of coffee or lunch.

STUDENTS LEAVE the new Student Union of Independence Community College. No doubt they have finished a chat over coffee, studied with friends for a test, indulged in a friendly game of chess or eaten breakfast or lunch.

ADMINISTRATION

BEGINNING CONSTRUCTION of the long awaited Student Union interested everyone at ICC. Completion, earlier scheduled for December, was dragged out until February.

Communico Is Dedicated to Board Members

The Board of Education of Independence Schools meets once a month, but then there are special meetings called to hire new teachers, replace old teachers, prepare budgets, decide teachers' salaries, and consider many other things.

These professional men and women have taken time away from their private lives to prepare for and consider the future education of the students in the Independence school system.

These men and women, though, do not forget the needs of the community. Mr. Ralph Osborn, appeared as Colonel Pickering in the play MY FAIR LADY.

We, the high school and college students of ICC thank you for the long hours and hard work you spend to make ICC the institution of higher education that it is. Thus it is with great pleasure that we dedicate this 1965 Communico to you.

Dean-Principal: Fred Cinotto

Students at ICC hold Dean-Principal Cinotto in high esteem. He is not only a good administrator, but his value is also recognized by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He has been serving as a member of a committee on accreditation which examines schools making application for membership in that organization. The committee recommends their acception or rejection on the basis of that examination.

Assistant Dean-Principal: Neil Edds

Neil Edds, assistant dean-principal, works personally with students in the high school division; however he is always ready to help any student in either division. During Mr. Cinotto's absence, he efficiently takes over the reins of ICC.

Administrators of ICC Are Busy, Responsible People

Boyd Talley, director of guidance

Many problems arise during the school year which leave students perplexed. Boyd Talley and Kenneth Wilson are always ready and willing to listen and give a word of advice and encouragement. Besides personal advice, vocational guidance is available. Helping students apply for scholarships and other awards is a part of the department duties.

The counselors work for the advancement of the students at all times. Aptitudes and interest tests are given to enable counselors to understand each person individually and guide him into a field where his strong points and interests will enable him to excel.

Good Counseling Makes Transfer to Other Schools Easier

College entrance requirements are taken into consideration when the students are making plans to transfer to another school. The counselor and student set up a schedule of classes which will transfer to the best advantage in his particular field.

Among the tests given for college entry are the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test, American College Testing Program, College Boards, NROTC and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Examination.

Kenneth Wilson, counselor

Office Staff Keeps College Machinery Running Smoothly

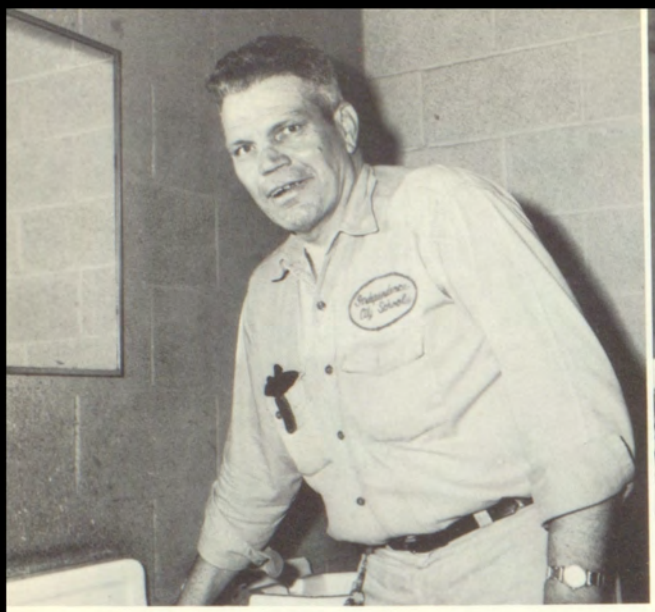

MISS MARY SELF, manager of the college bookstore, helps many students in their adjustment to a new school life at I.C.C. In addition to her many clerical duties, she supervises numerous study halls in the I.C.C. library and serves as the attendance clerk for both college and high school divisions.

MRS. BEVERLY HUDSON, the Dean's secretary, spends many busy hours in the I.C.C. office doing secretarial work. Besides this work she provides the students with information in answer to their numberless daily questions concerning the general school activity.

MRS. LORETTA WATTS, college bookkeeper, keeps I.C.C.'s finances in order, as well as providing a cheery smile for all around her. She also spends many hours helping students by giving them information about various school activities.

CLEANING LAVATORIES is only one of Wayne Claybaker's many duties.

Custodians and Cook Serve Students and Faculty

DISCUSSING the problems of the day with night man Harold Grabham (right), Clarence Moore, day man, prepares to leave his worries with the two other custodians.

ACADEMIC

RUNNING THE platem press requires much skill, finds Ted Harvey, a senior.

College catalogs, brochures, report cards, stationery, office formes and many other items are printed in ICC's printing plant. Students are taught many skills including use of linotype machines, presses, handsetting of type for advertisments and other special copy and the use of the offset press.

PREPARING A MASTER for the offset press, Charles Belt, who teaches printing courses and does the printing for the Independence schools, is using some of the latest equipment in his plant.

Printing Skills Prepare Students for Practical Jobs

USING AGILITY and skill, linotype operator Gene Hamlin casts body type.

SETTING TYPE the hard way, by hand, are David Ward and Elden Wood, two printing students.

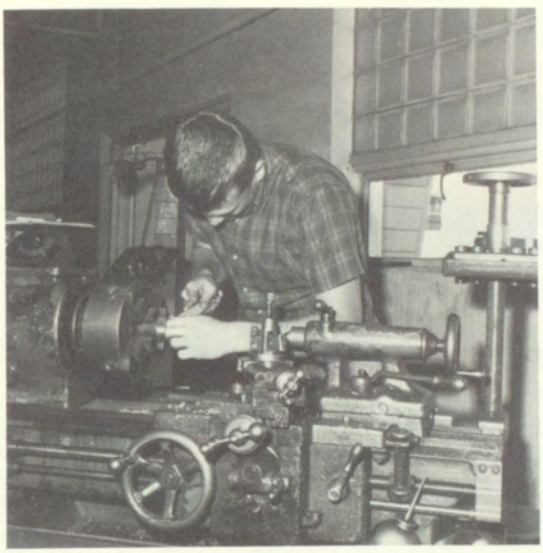

MOSES VOTH, college drafting and metal work, also helps with many ICC tasks.

RONALD WAGNER, woodwork and metal work at ICC, finds himself to be a very busy man.

WORK IS being done on a lathe in one of Mr. Voth's metal work classes. Charles Lenard concentrates on his task.

Industrial Skills Are Offered Students Here

DRAW FILING is being illustrated by Walter Jones and Clay Price. In the background are Larry Spencer and John Reid, who are working on other projects.

HOMEMAKING is taught by Armalea Hopperstad. She also sponsors The Future Homemakers of America which prepares girls for the career of home-making.

CAREFULLY doing the seams on her garment is Kris Whistler, while Esther Broiles checks her work before going on.

Sewing is more fun than work, as Vicky McCorkill is finding.

Electronics courses meet four hours each day during each semester. A student can earn thirty-two hours in this field which will lead to employment in a local industry.

Electronics Courses Lead to Employment Locally

Robert McGee, electronics and technical math for electronics.

REPAIRING TELEVISIONS and radios is only a part of the training received. Mike Bell, Hughie Clay, Bob Matukewicz and Bob Dart complete individual assignments.

Testing with some of the equipment, Ernest Sprague and Russell Lee carry out their tasks for class.

WORKING WITH SOME of the modern equipment in the electronics lab, Raymond Driskill studies a chart.

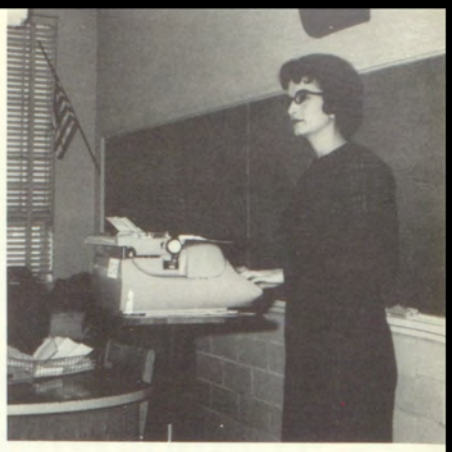

CHARLENE JEFFERS, instructor of accounting and bookkeeping at ICC, adds to her many teaching duties and the spirit of our school by sponsoring the College Pep Club.

BONNIE BYRD, a new addition to our teaching staff, teaches secretarial science, and also sponsors the high school Pep Club.

SANDRA COVEY, who is also a new addition to our campus, teaches typing and shorthand. She also sponsors the high school Pep Club.

COLLEGE social science and high school typing are taught by Lawrence (Chuck) McGovern (left), who is busily preparing for his classes.

IN ADDITION to teaching college economics and business law, Clyde Evans (right) instructs many other ICC business courses.

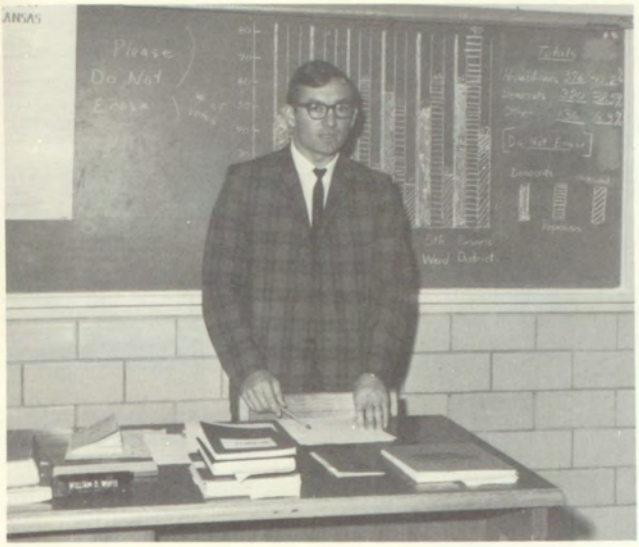

Business Courses Teach Practical Skills

WORKING on the rotary calculator, Sadie Swatken prepares an assignment for her calculating machines class.

HANDS of Pat Griffeth are working with the tedious figures of her balance sheet as she prepares her accounting assignment.

COACH William White, who has led the Bulldogs to many basketball victories, carefully explains the results of a local political poll to his high school government students.

ROBERT RATZLAFF, who teaches several college history courses, as well as a high school government class, patiently checks the deluge of his students' papers.

Social Science Courses Prepare One for Community Membership

SEEN CONTEMPLATING the coming game, Bulldog football coach Walter (Kayo) Emmot teaches H.S. American history classes.

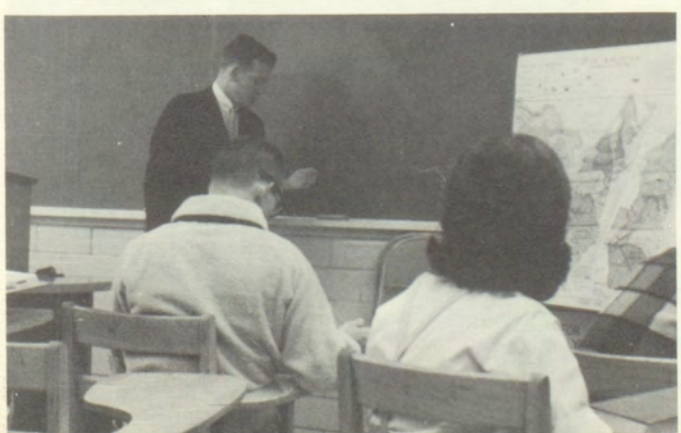

RALPH PEARSON, veteran ICC instructor, teaches American, English and medieval history, government and sociology. He also sponsors Phi Theta Kappa.

BILL SINGLETON, left, teaches high school American history in addition to having many coaching duties at ICC.

EXPLAINING a facet of history to one of his college classes, Robert Ratzlaff momentarily pauses to remove a trace of that ever-present chalk dust.

Ruth M. Lyon (below), College English and literature, and Communico adviser.

Michael Swartz (right), H.S. English, assistant H.S. basketball coach.

Typical of Other ICC Faculty Members, English Instructors Offer Students Individual Help

NOTED FOR HER willingness to spend hours giving individual help, Sally Anderson explains a point of grammar to a student who has come in after school for assistance. During the time she was teaching the technique for writing term papers, she became so interested in helping students that she missed a faculty meeting, completely forgetting it.

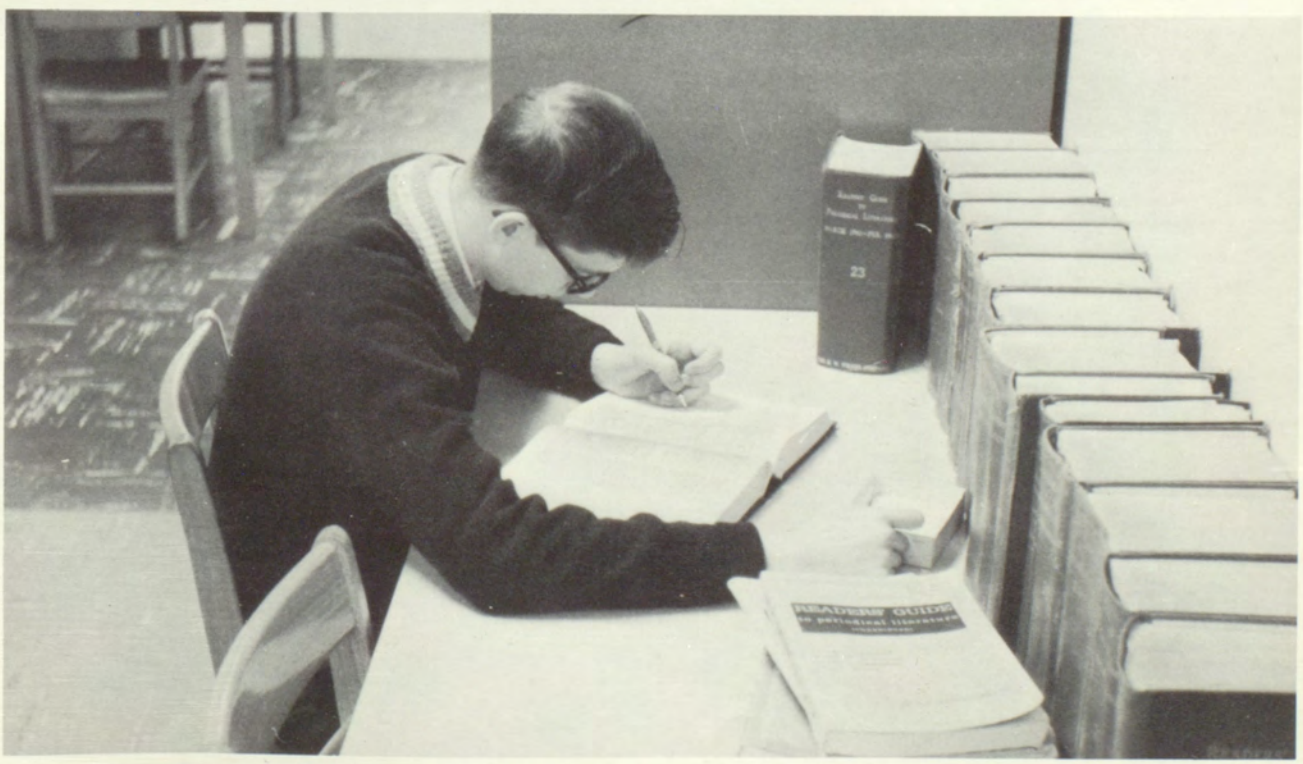

CONTEMPLATING one of the periodicals he will use as a source for a research paper, Kerry Wren prepares to take notes on cards to be used later in writing the theme.

Research Skills Learned in English Composition Aid Students in Writing for Other Fields

UTILIZING SKILLS learned in Freshman English, Paul Vaughn is consulting the Readers Guide to Periodical Literature before asking the librarian for magazines he will need in his research.

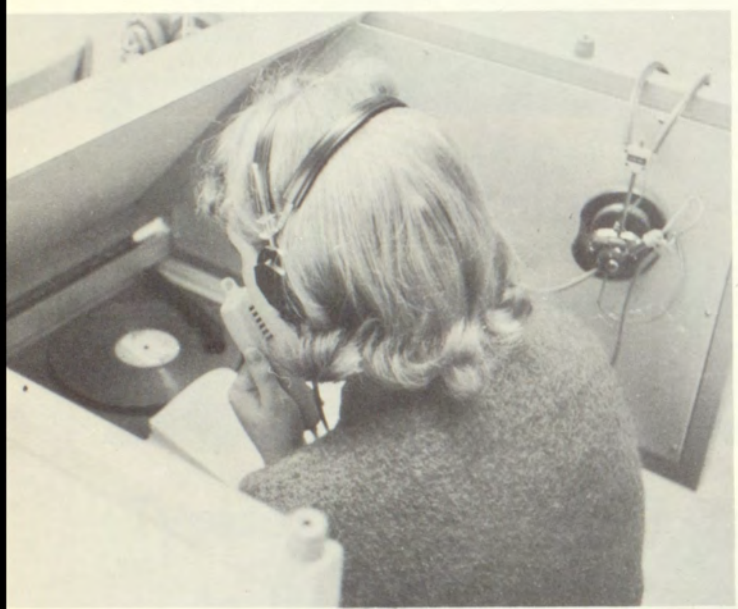

ALICE D. COBBLE, College and H.S. French, Sponsors Student Christian Fellowship.

ELIZABETH DE KOSTER, H.S.
French, psychology and English

Students Take Advantage of Language Lab

It is becoming more and more important in this small world of ours to know the other man's language. It helps us understand him and his problems —a vital accomplishment in these troubled times. Knowledge of another language also widens one's viewpoint and rounds out his personality. Students at ICC have an opportunity to learn French under the direction of two excellent teachers.

MAKING FRENCH records, Renita Blankenship is using a vital aid in learning to speak French fluently.

Assistant Librarian

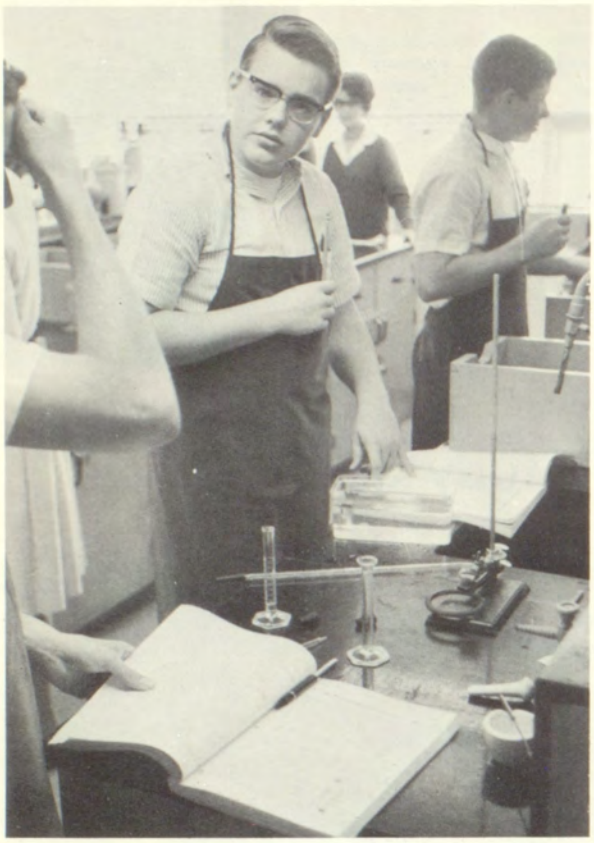

Library Is Popular Study Scene

Changes throughout ICC are mirrored in the changes in the library hours. The addition second semester of Mrs. Singleton to the staff allowed for the use of the library two evenings during the week. This allowed students who work during the afternoon to use the library in doing their research and extra reading assigned in class.

Always a popular spot for studying, the library became crowded during the weeks when deadlines on research themes were close.

WENDELL FERGUSON, College chemistry including general, inorganic, organic and qualitative analysis.

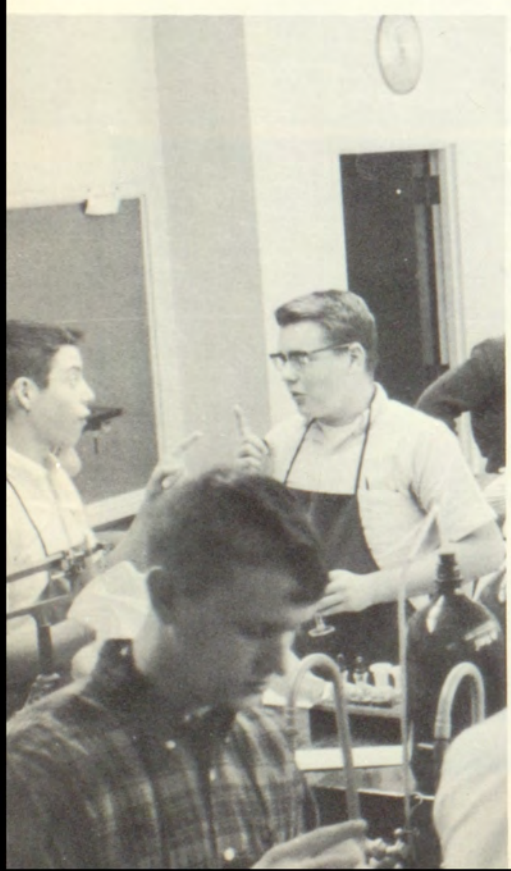

DEMPSY WALKER, College and H.S. physics and physical science, sponsor of Science Club.

College students enrolled in pre-engineering, pharmacy, medicine, and nursing soon become acquainted with three hundred hall, which is better known as the Science Center of ICC.

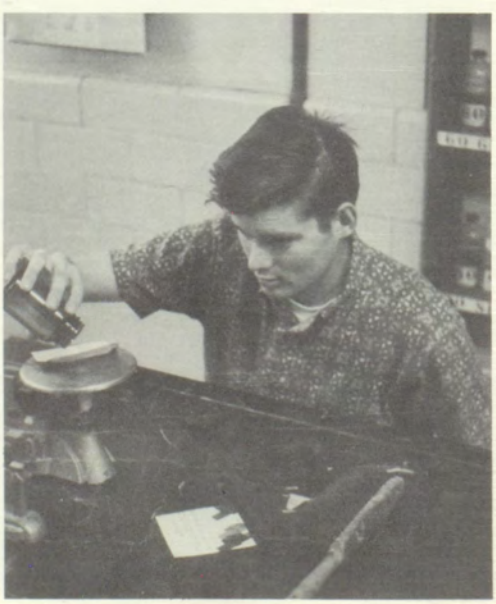

Sciences Are Necessary to Many Vocations

From these classrooms emerge many strange sights, sounds and smalls. These rooms indeed hold the future leaders of our scientific world.

TWO HIGH school fourth-hour chemistry students Roger Heckamn and Eric Burkhead (left) don't seem to agree on their experiment findings.

COLLEGE FRESHMAN John Driskill weights the compound for his experiment carefully.

JAMES ARNWINE, personal hygiene, and community health, college biology, and high school chemistry.

STUDENTS DISCOVER a new world through biology.

Study of Biology Opens New World

Although the odor of formaldehyde may make biology a bit unpleasant, the students still like the course. One of the reasons they enjoy it is that new discoveries of the world take place before their very eyes. Many long hours of hard work, skill, and patience are required for these courses, but most of the students of I.C.C. will agree that it is worth every minute.

Of interest to the public as well as the students are Mr. Arwine's animals which he and the students collect locally and house in specially constructed quarters. Parents have caught the fever and often contribute to the collection.

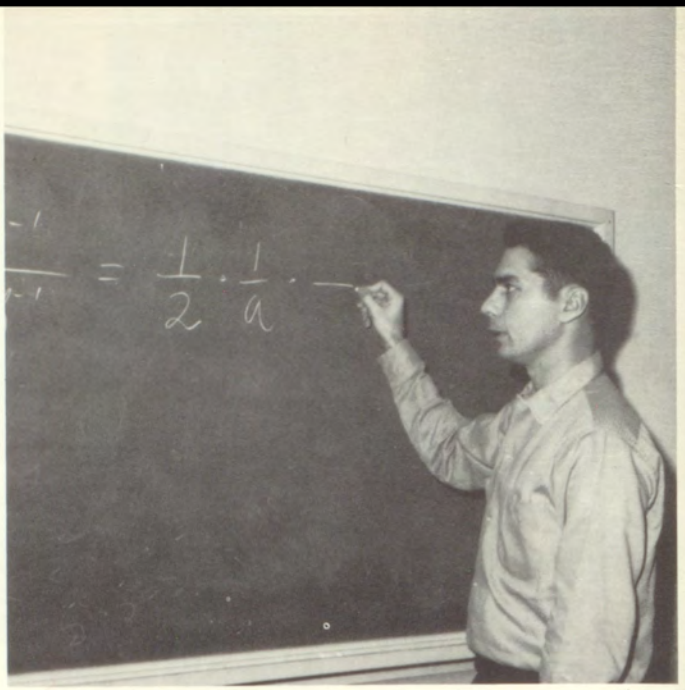

EXAMINING LEAVES, Mike Zivkovic looks perplexed.

OFTEN Mr. Osburn is found in the act of helping his students during their lab.

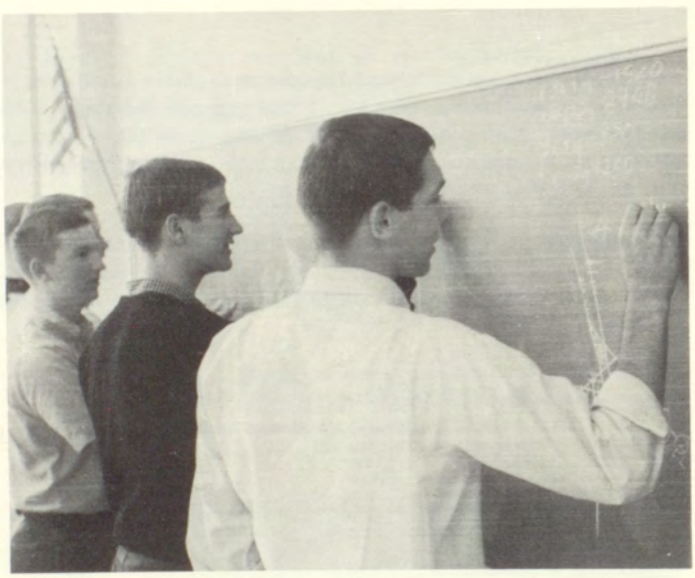

JOHN FAVERO,
College Math Instructor

BILL JUBY,
High School Math Instructor

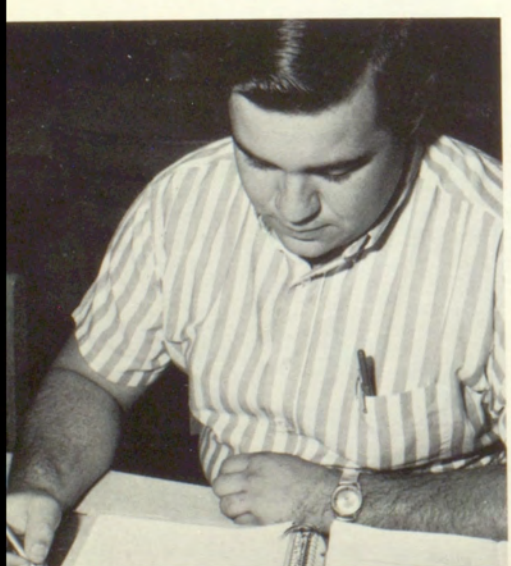

ELDON SMITH,
College Math Instructor

Marvin Bredehoft, Mike Murphy, David Webb, Steve McKenzie, and Jon Hayes drill on problems during their Senior Math class.

Pondering over a calculus parabola is Roger Erickson, a college freshman.

Math seems to be a very popular subject at ICC for many courses in this area are offered. High School algebra, trigonometry, and geometry as well as College algebra and calculus are a few.

Modern Math Fails to Confuse These Mathematicians

POINTING OUT the result of the technique he has been discussing, Darral Dishman, art instructor, continues his lecture.

Fine Arts Offer Students Satisfying Outlets

Concerts and exhibits allow the public to view the results of classes in the fine arts. Exhibits of student art are usually artfully arranged near the auditorium when a concert, musical or drama is being presented. A more permanent representation of the art department may be seen in the mural in the Student Union. The mural depicts a Pirate ship sailing into a cove where the treasures of life, including a college diploma are hidden.

PART of the noise in 500 hall during first hour is due to the practice by band members. Here a part of the larger group is shown.

FRANK SICKS, director of athletics at ICC.

MARIE STOCKEBRAND, Girls phys. ed., first aid, physiology. Sponsor of Pirateers.

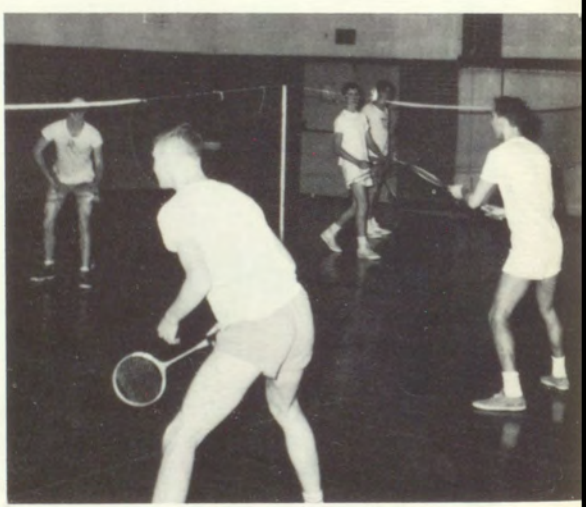

JAMES SMELSER, first aid, physiology, personal hygiene and phys. ed. Pirate Basketball coach.

Importance of Physical Fitness Is Stressed

DEMONSTRATING their acrobatic and muscle-building feats (left) are several members of Frank Sick's gym classes. At the right they are trying their luck at playing badminton.

PERFORMING the many tumbling and acrobatic stunts is found to be good exercise and often amusing by the students of Marie Stockebrand's gym classes. The girls find that sometimes much courage is needed before success is captured.

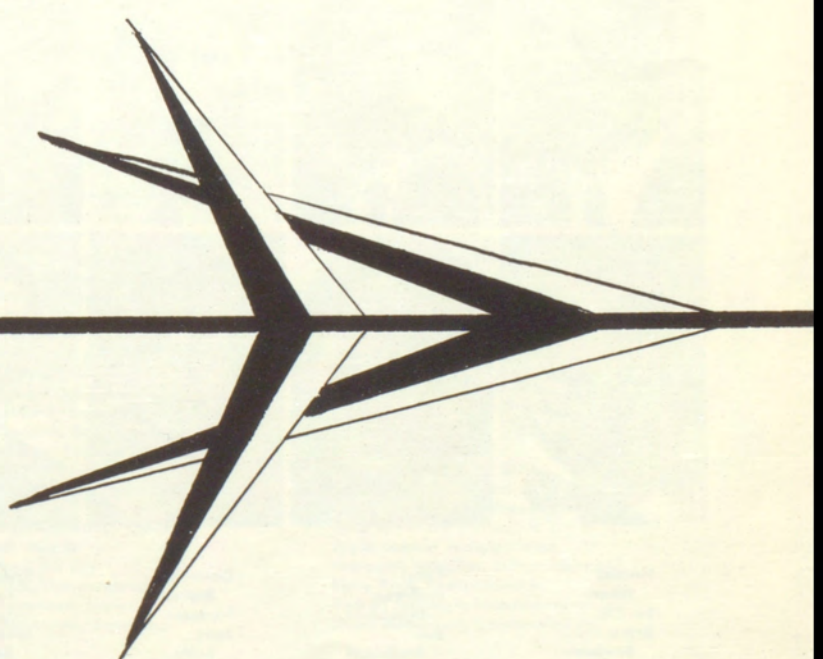

COLLEGE

We are speaking softly now of days that have flown too fast and are gone beyond recall, for good-bye saying time is here again to complete the tragedy of hello.
Some of us will leave without a backward glance to meet the challenge of days unlived,
and there are others, those who will go their way
with an untold, secret sadness.
These are the ones who have found something special here.
Oh, perhaps it was nothing more than someone who cared enough to be a friend or listen to and share a private joke, but at least it is something they can take with them to look back at with a smile in later times,
small memories to keep forever
in a secret place and to take from hiding from time to time
whenever there is a need to wonder and remember . . .

Sophomores See Progress At ICC In New Union And Stadium

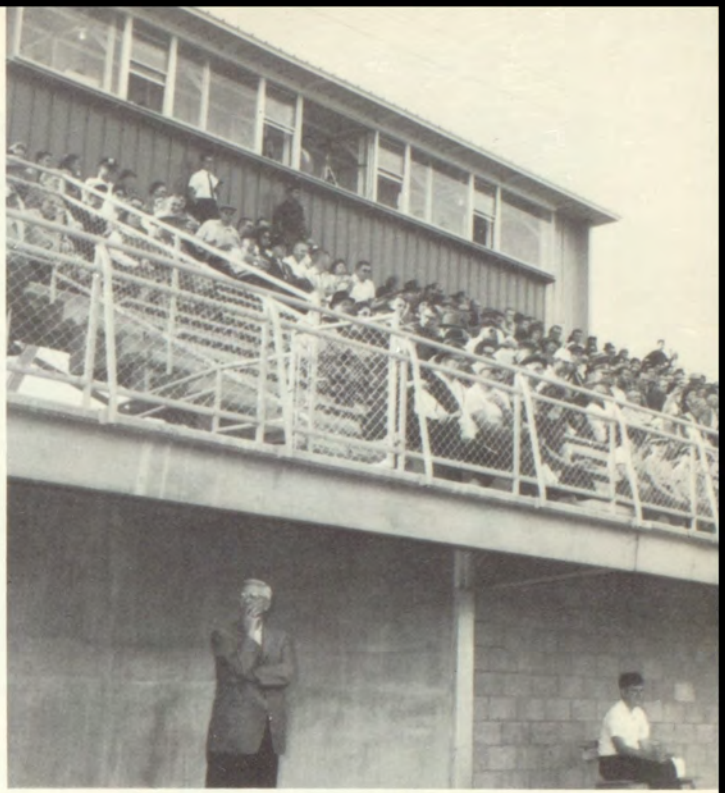

WHAT WILL YOU HAVE, ROGER? asks Yancy Hudson, first semester Stuco president, as he fills a plate behind the counter in the old cafeteria.

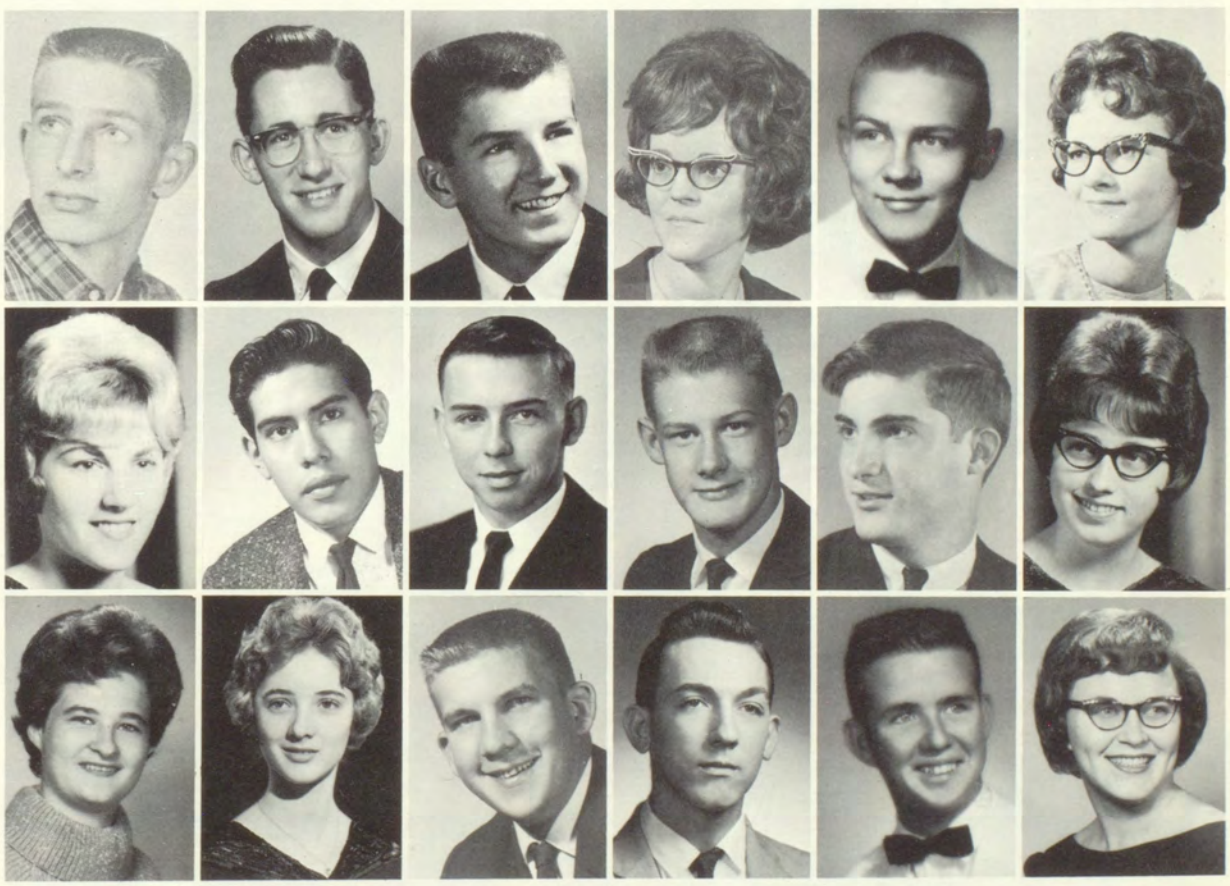

Some students were able, under the old plan, to earn their noon meal if they wished to work at washing dishes, waiting tables or other tasks.

GENERATING PEP is a difficult task, and cheerleaders show this by ending up looking rather disheveled.

Student Christian Fellowship offers an opportunity for the joining of all faiths in a weekly period of devotions. The organization has no recorded membership, but students feel free to drop into the meetings at any time.

Special programs for Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter are prepared for College assemblies. The group meets in get-acquainted party each fall.

Students, faculty members, local ministers, visiting evangelists and business men furnish inspiring talks for the meetings.

Christmas affords an opportunity for members to sing carols in the foyer at least once during the season.

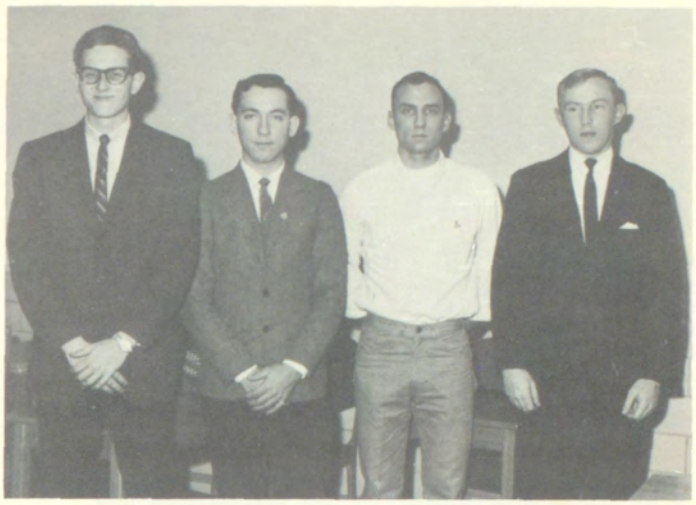

FACULTY MEMBERS often drop in to share weekly devotions with ICC's students. Assistant dean-Principal Neil Edds chose this particular morning to join the group. He and Mrs. Alice Cobble, sponsor, join the hymn with the students in the background.

Spiritual Uplift Offered by Student Christian Fellowship

MANY STUDENTS take time from the busy week and their warm beds to attend the Tuesday morning, 7:30 meeting of Student Christian Fellowship. Bob Wullenschneider (far left) served as SCF president this year.

Phi Beta Lambda, also known as Future Business Leaders of America, is a very busy organization. This group has attended many state conventions and in addition to its many other activities has visited many local business establishments. All members are required to be enrolled in at least one business at ICC.

Science Classes Generate Interests

Which Carry Students Into Science Club

Membership in the Science Club at Independence High School shows that class interest motivates young people to go beyond the required work. Mr. Dempsey Walker is the sponsor of this high school group whose officers include president, Jeff Renard; vice-president, Mike Dennis; secretary, Helen Blood; treasurer, Jim Burns, and Student Council representative, Jim Kelley. Any high school junior or senior is welcome to join this organization which is one of the finest clubs at I.C.C. These young people show what the teen-agers of America are really like.

NEW PLEDGES TO the Phi Theta Kappa are Linda Rector, taking the oath; Kay Price, Meredith Miller, Mary Roberts, Shirley McMillin, Linda Yeager, Susan Horton, Madge McMillin, Darrell Miner, James Nelms and Bruce Borders.

Membership in Phi Theta Kappa, national honor society for students in junior colleges, is a goal reached by students who prove their scholarship and leadership in the college. Candidates are chosen by a special faculty committee.

Phi Theta Kappa Recognizes Scholarship

DISCUSSING details in preparation for the pledging service, President Thiessen and Sponsor Ralph Pearson prepare to begin the ceremony.

College Student Council Supervises Union

This year, for the first time, the Student Council has been divided into a High School and a college division, in line with the general trend toward separating the college and high-school divisions of I.C.C. The main project of the College Division Student Council is the new Student Union. The Council also has been working toward building a better image of the college and encouraging more students in the surrounding areas to enroll here.

High School Student Council Finds Much to Do

Many important tasks have been accomplished by this high school Student Council. One of the most important, of course, was the sponsoring and planning of several proms. Also very important is the supporting of an orphan, Kim Soo Bong. In addition to these projects, they donated ten dollars to Radio Free Europe in behalf of the High School Division.

These same members applied a little elbow grease to enhance the appearance of our school. One of the first things they did was to clean the trophy case and polish all of the trophies. This effort also brightened school spirits. Another task was to touch up the Bulldog sign on campus and construct a fight banner to display during the games.

They have held several Stuco-faculty conferences, which have been very beneficial for the discussion of school problems. Attending many of these conferences and regular meetings were Mr. Neil Edds, Mr. Kenneth Wilson, and Mrs. Sally Anderson.

SOPHOMORE Steve Dalke is busy working on the sound affects for Death of a Salesman.

Service to Civic Productions Is Given by Members

Membership in ICC PLAYERS is gained by earning points. A total of thirty points is needed to be initiated. One earns these points by helping back stage, selling tickets, scenery designing, or acting in a production sponsored by the Players. Player activities are not limited to ICC. Throughout the year Players usher at most of the Civic plays presented at the Memorial Hall. Players live up to their motto "Act well your part, therein all honor lies."

One Acts Seek Anna Awards

Each year the Play Production class at ICC present one-act plays in competition for Anna Awards which are made in honor of the late Miss Anna Ingleman, former drama coach at the College.

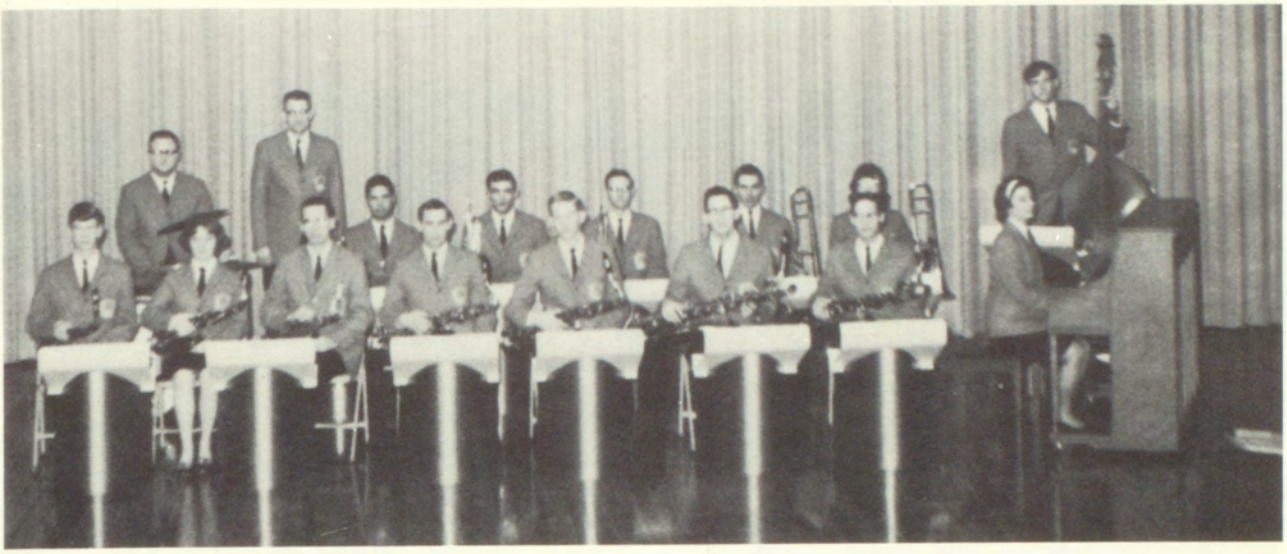

Impartial judges are asked to choose the best actor, best actress, best supporting actor, best supporting actress, best director, and best play of those presented. Members of the class choose their play, cut it to thirty minutes in length, cast it and direct its production.

Blue Notes Volunteer for Service At ICC and Neighboring Schools

DISTINGUISHED by recently acquired new blue blazers and much modern jazz music, the ICC Blue Notes perform for many civic functions. This group played for the college basketball coronation, as well as for several high school proms in the local area. In addition to keeping up with its busy schedule, this extra-curricular instrumental group has made two hit records during the last five years. These records were cut by the RCA recording company.

IN THE PAST years they have played for various civic functions and proms in Fredonia, Elk City, Cherryvale, and Caney, in addition to many Country Club dances. They receive no grade or school credit for their work, and only the best students in the school band can qualify for this organization.

Art Club Gives Service to Other Organizations

ICC Art Club, sponsored by Mr. Darral Dishman, is composed of students who have an interest in art. The Art Club prepares some of its members for careers as cartoon artists, fashion designers, stage designers, and sculpturers. For others art is merely an enjoyable hobby.

Throughout the year various paintings and sculptures are displayed in the foyer. Club members also help other organizations plan displays, make posters, and help with the decorations for the proms.

Before Christmas the Art Club constructed a modern Nativity scene and displayed it on the front lawn of the school.

Every school day throughout the year, ICC takes to the air waves by way of Radio Station KIND. The program, broadcast at 11:30 a.m. each day, brings up-to-date news of events on campus. Interviews with faculty members, administrators, student personalities, coaches of athletics and discussion groups are featured regularly. ICC's music department furnishes the program occasionally.

Production of the programs is under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Goheen. The producers are the members of her class in Radio Production. Each semester a new group enrolls in the class and handles the planning and conduct of the quarter-hour spot. Enrolled in second semester's class are those pictured and Gary Murrell and Grady Sewell.

LOOKING OVER his notes before the opening signal for "The Voice of Your College," Dean Graham prepares to assume his responsibilites as announcer for that day's broadcast.

"Voice of Your College" Keeps Public Informed

ACCURATE TIME is necessary to the production of a good radio show and to the maintaining of good relationships with KIND's engineers. Here Marvin Voth flashes the time cards, and with one-half minute to go, Richard Mount waits for completion of his duty as engineer at the controls.

College Future Teachers Observe Career Week

This year the Future Teachers of America at ICC was divided into two separate bodies—a high-school and a college club—because of its size and because of the overall division of ICC. The club is directed toward preparing students for teaching careers—keeping them informed of new teaching methods and teacher problems.

H.S. Future Teachers Look Toward Teaching

EVERY THIRD Thursday of each month the high school Future Teachers meet and plan new activities. One of their main activities of the past was a Christmas party and they are now making plans for a spring picnic. They hope to present four scholarships this year to worthy members of the senior class. They have earned this money by selling concessions at all the high school and college basketball games.

FUTURE TEACHER officers are (seated) Susan Schroeder, secretary-treasurer; Cathy McCullagh, president; Mary Fehring, vice-president; (standing) Becky Bradley, Student Council reresentative, and Karen Schaub, alternate representative.

ICC Band Royalty 1965

"LOVE MAKES THE WORLD GO AROUND" was the theme of Queen Linda's coronation. She and her attendants were crowned in the early moments before the band's annual spring concert. The program included songs to please almost everyone. Some of the selections were arrangements from "A Kingston Trio Folk Song Overture," highlights from the Broadway show "Hello, Dolly," themes from "Scheherazade," "Caribbean Fantasy," selections from "How the West Was Won," "Prelude and Fugue," "Trumpet in the Night," "Saxo-Rapsody," selections from "Lawrence of Arabia," Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," "El Chaco," and "Dauntless."

WORKING HARD to make the coronation a success were these committee chairmen, Becky Bradley, Helen Blood, decorations; Kathy Alexander, Sandra Wesley, advertisement; Cheryl Blair, Linda Hamma, reception; Ronald Mordy and Dean Graham, tickets.

PERFORMING at the opening and half-times of both college and high school games takes much time and practice on the part of the ICC band, directed by Mr. Lloyd Mordy. They also put much effort into their tours. The first of these tours was on October 3 when the band attended the KU band concert in Lawrence. On April 21 they departed for Sedan and Cherryvale where they participated in concerts. In addition to their many activities they actively participate in the local Neewollah celebration and other civic functions.

PROBABLY THE MOST important people on any yearbook staff are the photographers. Steve Dalke is explaining one of the settings on the Speed Graphic to Russell Osborn, another photographer.

Renita Blankenship (standing) seems pleased by Louanne Neilson's comments on her design for the Communico.

Long hours of work, disappointment and discouragement go into producing a yearbook. The Communico staff found their year to contain all of these things.
It is with pride
It is with pric
It is with pride, however, that the staff presents this copy of the Communico.
It is not perfect, and these are errors
It is not perfect, and there are errors, as you will point out to us; nevertheless we feel that it represents the many important things which ICC means to each of us.

We, the members of this staff, feel that Independence Community College has a bright future and that progress is evident on our campus. Long live ICC!

ONE OF THE DUTIES of each staff member is to scrutinize copy for errors as Valerie Thiessen is doing.

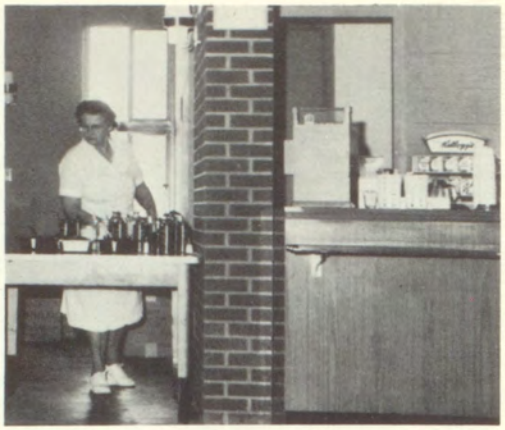

COMPARING THE MERITS of several photos, Larry Schmitz, photographer, learns about group arrangement for yearbook pictures.

VIEWING the New Union building from the front fails to show the spaciousness of the facility. Landscaping will be completed this spring.

MRS. EVA COOPER, the cook at the Student Union, looks over the relish bar.

Fees paid by the students of ICC are paying for the new student Union building. A spacious dining hall wth comfortable lounges in the alcove characterize the new facility. Use of the building is restricted to the college students except during the noon hour when high school students may eat lunch there.

It serves the students as a place to meet friends, chat, eat, study, or play a friendly game of pitch. A stereo furnishes background music most of the day. Art students are busy preparing a mural for one wall.

ICC Union Is Popular with Students

SELF-SERVICE IS THE KEY WORD to the food buying at I.C.C. The cafeteria style counter is quite modern and has just about anything a person could want. Pat Simmons serves as the cashier.

CHOOSING the Union as a place to study, Kim Alavi pursues one of his courses, whose reading presents a problem for Kim must use his Iranian-English dictionary as a constant aid.

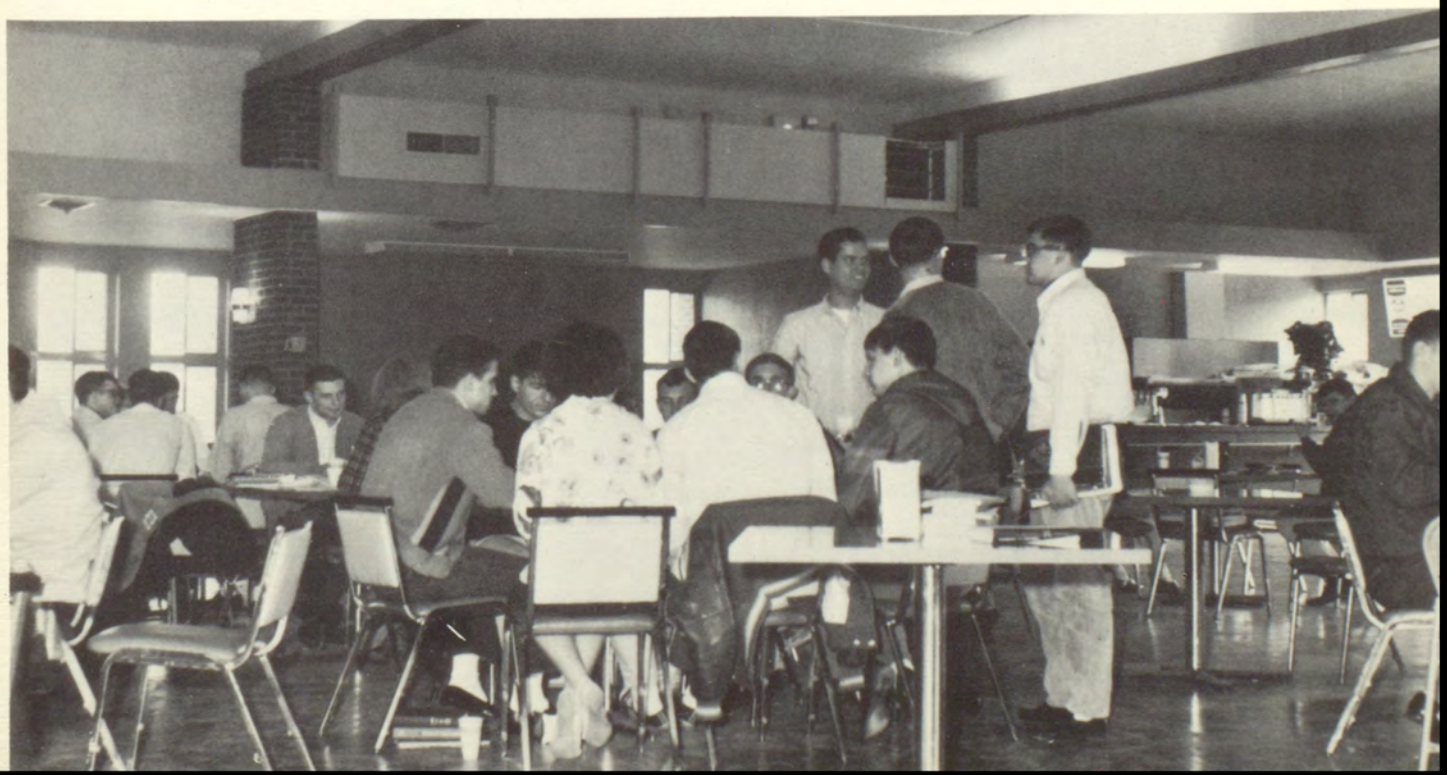

MEETING for a friendly card game is great fun as these boys find. Temptation is great to ignore the clock and forget the next class.

Scenes in the Union

COMFORTABLE chairs in the alcoves (right) attract conversation or review groups. Smoking is prohibited in this area.

NOON PROVES to be the most popular time of the day at the Union. Students with noon classes are preparing to leave as others begin the rush to refresh themselves.
